Emordnilap isn't a palindrome, but they're all around us

"Sit on a potato pan, Otis," doesn't mean much to most people, but it causes Rodney W. Crittenden, a Daly City math teacher, to smile with satisfaction.

Crittenden, you see, has developed a backward outlook on life. He is fascinated by palindromes — words, sentences or numbers that read the same backwards and forwards.

The salt-and-pepper-haired man with a mischievous grin is sentimental about such old standbys as "Madam, I'm Adam" and James Thurber's, "He Goddam mad dog, eh?"

He cackles with delight at the discovery of places like the Yreka Bakery and palindromic numbers like 1,001 that, when squared, equal other palindromic numbers (1,002,001).

Crittenden is never caught without an appropriate palindrome.

Introduce him to someone named Dave and he cries, "Aha!" then scribbles, "Evade me, Dave" on a memo pad headed, "Some Memos."

Mention the oil crisis and he comes up with, "Never odd or even."

Politics? He strokes his long beard thoughtfully, then writes, "Won't Carter retract now?" and "Rise to vote, sir."

But most of his palindromes are pure nonsense, like, "Lew, Otto has a hot towel," and the laminated tag he wears that reads, "Gateman sees name, Garageman sees nametag."

Naturally, Crittenden drives a BMW 2002. His other car has license plates that read, "DONT NOD."

"I suppose I could have gotten A TOYOTA, a Honda CIVIC or a Volvo 242," he says, emphasizing the palindromes.

The 49-year-old San Francisco resident obtained the phone number of 661-6166 by making a special request to the phone company.

Other palindromes pop up by sheer chance. For example, he seems to have a knack for glancing at his digital watch at palindromic times. "I tell people it only registers that way," he laughs.

Crittenden, a native of New York, shares his enthusiasm for palindromes with students in his math classes at Serramonte High School in Daly City, challenging them to find palindromic prime numbers, such as 9,989,899. (That number, by the way, is the phone number of the vice president of the California Mathematics Council in the Los Angeles area.)

Some of his students affectionately call him "Professor Rosseforp."

One Christmas, his students gave the "professor" a bright yellow T-shirt emblazoned with "Palindrome Specialists Make Better Lovers" and the number 61,728,399,382,716.

Crittenden explains that he is very fond of that number because it is a triangular palindrome; that is, a number that can be physically represented in the form of a triangle and reads the same backwards and forwards.

Other triangular numbers are 3, 6, 10 and 15. For instance, the number 10, in triangular form, looks like bowling pins:

000
0000

The small, energetic man rushes to the blackboard to explain that triangular numbers follow the formular of n(n+1) divided by 2. The number 61,728,399,382,716 is the result of the equation 11,111,111 x 11,111,112 divided by 2.

If triangular palindromes seem mindboggling, consider that Crittenden also collects square, pentagon, hexagon and even decagon palindromes.

Another of his favorite numbers is 798,644. It is the only number he has found, besides 836, that — when squared — results in an even number (637,832,238,736) that is a palindrome.

Crittenden uses a computer to find some numerical palindromes.

The secret to writing verbal palindromes is easy, he confides: "You look for words that can be written backwards and forwards, like 'civic,' 'level' and 'redivider.'"

A fast 5 minutes

Parking hearing delay

In less than five minutes, the Daly City City Council took action on three items Monday night at a special meeting.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky admitted that the city goofed when it set a public hearing for June 11 on the proposed establishment of preferential parking on Shakespeare Street.

At his suggestion, the council changed that hearing date to July 23, to fulfill the city's regulations for publicizing public hearings in advance.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

Under preferential parking, residents are given stickers that allow them to park in front of their homes. It is designed to discourage commuters from parking on residential streets.

In other action, the council approved a Daly City Cab Co. request for two additional taxi permits, bringing the total fleet of cabs to 14.

The council also commended eight Girl Scouts upon achieving the award of "First Class," the equivalent of the Boy Scouts' rank of Eagle. They are Teresa Gorrabeeck, Elizabeth Lapachet, Lisa Neschi, Lorraine Parker, Carla Prater, Lisa Bolton, Natsuke Akashi and Diana Rigas.

During the study session that followed the special meeting, Councilman William Sshumacher objected to the duty statement that the Personnel Board approved for the new job of "police assistant."

He said he didn't see any reason for requiring the jobholder to be between 18 and 31 years old and to have 20/70 uncorrected vision in each eye and normal color vision.

Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger explained that the Personnel Board intended the position to be a stepping stone to the job of police officer.

Schumacher said he doesn't want to see the department requiring prospective officers first to be police assistants, as is the case in "some of the small departments on the Peninsula where, unless you become a police resrve (officer), you don't get hired as an officer."

Letsinger said, "I think the intent was just the opposite."

Polonsky suggested having a police representative present at the meeting next Monday when the topic is scheduled for council action.

Homeowners eye sidewalk cracks

Members of the Hillside Homeowners Association told the Daly City City Council Monday night that they don't want to be left with the responsibility for fixing sidewalk cracks in Blossom Valley Unit 1.

Speaking on behalf of the organization, Frank Loretta told council members at their study session that he thinks the builder, Forest Knolls Development Co., should not be let off the hook if there is a possibility the hairline cracks in the sidewalks will grow worse.

The council is scheduled to consider accepting the public improvements made by the developer in the subdivision at its regular meeting next Monday.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky explained that a two-year, $8,000 bond covering defects in the work will go into effect when the council accepts the job. He said that bond period might be extended for another couple of years.

Loretta complained that he doesn't think homeowners should have to pay for repairing the sidewalks after that period, should heavy rains or other circumstances widen the cracks.

He agreed with Robert Pauly of Forest Knolls that there is no need to repair all of the sidewalks now, since the cracks are not severe.

Pauly said he has counted 41 cracks in the subdivision. Jack Portale of the Hillside Homeowners estimates that the number of cracks is in the hundreds.

Councilman William Schumacher said he would be more inclined to insist on a bigger bond if he were not impressed with the integrity of the developer.

Polonsky implied that the council will accept all of the public improvements next Monday, with the exception of a cable television trench that is in the works.

Loretta stressed that he doesn't want future homeowners to find that the city doesn't have anything in writing to protect them from having to pay for sidewalk repairs.

Polonsky said he was insulted by Loretta's intimation that the city would be so unprofessional.

Study shows Daly City has held the line

A study by California Polytechnic State University shows that Daly City kept its per capita 1977-78 expenditures down in comparison to cities of comparable size.

According to college's "Comparative Cities Finance Project," Daly City spent $192.62 on each of its 72,620 residents during 1977-78.

That amount is lower than six other cities in San Mateo County with which Daly City compared itself. It is slightly higher than San Bruno's per capital expenditures of $174.18 on each of its 38,600 residents.

The local cities that outspent Daly City are Burlingame ($272.72 on each of 28,325 residents), Menlo Park ($255.99 on each of 27,378 residents), Pacifica ($230.38 on each of 39,150 residents), Redwood City ($314.80 on each of 55,756 residents), San Mateo ($412.62 on each of 79,132 residents) and South San Francisco ($248.88 on each of 48,728 residents).

PACE says signatures 'easy' to get

A group attempting to recall Jefferson Union High School District Trustee Jane Powell reports it has collected 1,800 of the 8,428 necessary signatures.

Called the Parents Action Committee for Education (PACE), the group has until July 13 to gather enough valid signatures to force a recall election.

"It's very, very easy to get signatures. Eight out of every 10 people we ask sign our petitions," Maxine Gonsalves, PACE chairman, said late Monday.

She said the group has about 40 persons gathering signatures in Pacifica and Daly City.

Recall proponents have accused Mrs. Powell of making staff and program reductions and speaking inaudibly at public meetings, even when requested to speak louder.

Mrs. Powell, who has been a JUHSD trustee 10 years, has declined to reply to her critics.

Meanwhile, a group formed to fight the recall attempt, the Support Committee of Responsible Education (SCORE), is distributing leaflets door to door.

The SCORE chairman, Frank Beller, said his group has investigated PACE's charges and has found them to be "false and misleading."

He said, "One has to ask who or what organization is behind the recall and what do they expect to gain? Could it be control of the board?"

Also, SCORE has criticized the spending of $30,000 to $40,000 on a special election. However, Mrs. Gonsalves said PACE plans to hold the recall election at the time of the November election, saving the expense of a special election.

Judge turns down 'kangaroo court' plea in DC firing

Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn refused Monday morning to grant a preliminary injunction that would have prevented the City of Daly City from continuing with its dismissal hearing for Daly City Officer Stephan Srock.

Although Srock's attorney, Charles Garry, complained that the hearing would be a "kangeroo court," the judge said he agreed with the city's argument that Srock has not exhausted all of his legal remedies.

"I take the position that after there's a hearing and you determine it's unfair, then it's the court's duty to intervene, but I can't crystal ball this thing," Cohn said Monday at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City.

When Garry objected to proceeding with that hearing "in what I consider a kangeroo court," the judge replied that asking the court to intervene before the hearing takes place is "like coming in here and asking me to assure you (that) you will get a fair hearing."

Garry argued that Daly City could not possibly give Srock a fair dismissal hearing because one of its police officers, Capt. Roger Austin, had addressed all three shifts of the Police Department about Srock's case on April 11 and, as a result, had made them afraid to testify on Srock's behalf at the hearing.

The attorney became visibly upset when he pointed out that Austin also had told all three shifts that he, Garry, is a Communist.

Those charges are among many made in a lawsuit that Srock filed May 1 against the City of Daly City, the Daly City Police Department, City Manager David Rowe, Assistant City Manager Raymond Letsinger, and three employees in the Police Department: Chief David Hansen, Lt. James Doran and Austin.

The city does not deny that Austin addressed police officers; Hansen and Rowe both say in declarations to the court that they would have prevented Austin from commenting on the case had they known in advance that he was planning to do so.

Overturning Garry's request for a preliminary injunction to block the dismissal hearing, Cohn said Garry is one of the best known attorneys in the country and that he doubted that Austin's comments would change opinions that officers already had formed about him.

The judge said he was unable to determine in advance of the hearing whether Austin's remarks would dissuade officers from testifying.

Following Srock's dismissal hearing, if he is, indeed, dismissed (he currently is on administrative suspension with pay), he may appeal his dismissal to the city's Personnel Board, have a hearing before that board and then have the City Council make a final determination based on its own hearing of the arguments and the Personnel Board's findings.

Cohn did find merit in Garry's objection to having the dismissal hearing run by a Daly City city employee.

To eliminate possible problems in the future, he suggested that Daly City select someone outside of the city to officiate at the hearing.

JUHSD aides vote for AFT

Clerical workers and resource and classroom aides in the Jefferson Union High School District voted overwhelmingly Thursday to be represented by the American Federation of Teachers – the same union that represents the district's teachers.

It is the first time in California that clerical classified employees have chosen a teacher's union to represent them.

Officials from the state Public Employees Relations Board Daly City counted 80 votes for representation by AFT, 36 votes for representation by the Classified Employees School Association and 10 votes for no representation.

The winner needed a simple majority of the votes cast.

CSEA won the right to represented the district's clerical workers and aides last spring. It has about 65 members.

Crown Colony complex hit by crime, strife

Daly City police revealed Tuesday that 29 burglaries and one rape have been reported in the 920-unit Crown Colony Apartments during the last two months.

The crime wave is just one of several complaints that tenant William Scalice has about the way the apartments are run.

He said he and other tenants have installed their own locks on their doors to prevent burglars, the complex's security guards and workmen from using passkeys to enter their apartments.

Scalice said there have been several instances when tenants were in their apartments — and, in one case, were in bed with no clothes on — when individuals walked in, without knocking, by using passkeys.

He said the tenants who had experienced these problems would not allow their names to be used, for fear of "reprisals by the management."

Scalice complained that the complex's manager, Robert Graham, has refused to keep tenants informed about the crime problem, won't tell them whether or not the apartments will be converted into condominiums and arbitrarily told tenants last week that they had to get rid of their pets within three days or their leases would be suspended and they would be evicted.

"We have a tenant's association here and, if things continue, I'm sure he'll's going to break lose," Scalice said angrily.

Graham denied all of Scalice's charges, saying that the tenant has never approached his office and only Scalice's wife, Sue, had ever registered a complaint by phone.

He said Daly City police told him that the suspects responsible for the burglaries had been arrested.

Daly City Lt. Thomas Culley said Tuesday that only one of three suspects has been arrested.

He confirmed Tuesday that there have been 29 burglaries in the apartments during the last two months — eight of which occurred during the week of May 9-15.

In addition, Culley revealed that one tenant reported being raped in her apartment on May 13. "We didn't report it to the press because we didn't want to start a panic," he said.

Culley said the three men police suspected of having committed the burglaries lived in a Crown Colony apartment at 370 Imperial Drive, Apt. 123.

They arrested one suspect, Kerry Bland, 20, on Friday on charges of possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana and assaulting a police officer.

Culley explained that an undercover officer asked Bland for some identification and, when Bland invited him into his apartment while he searched for his wallet, the officer noticed the stolen property and marijuana. The assault charge was added when Bland allegedly struck the officer and tried to flee.

Culley said Daly City police are trying to round up persons to identify the stolen property, which he said consists of "a massive amount of clothing, TVs, stereo equipment, sporting equipment, you name it."

Tracing some stolen property to a burglary at the College of San Mateo, Culley said, "It looks like these guys covered quite a bit of territory."

Culley added that San Bruno police intend to charge the trio with other burglaries that allegedly were committed while they lived at The Place Apartments in that city.

Graham said Crown Colony's own security guards were instrumental in catching the suspect. He said he hasn't seen Bland at the apartments since his arrest.

The apartment manager denied that security guards or workmen have made unauthorized entries.

Graham said he is as much in the dark as everyone else about a report that a firm called Cadillac Fair View Homes West of Newport Beach is planning to buy the apartments and convert them into condominiums.

A Cadillac Fair View spokesman said Monday that the company has not yet decided whether to buy the complex and won't make a decision this week.

If the firm does opt for conversion, Cadillac Fair View Vice President David Kuhn said tenants would be permitted to buy their units at prices ranging from $50,000 to $100,000.

In response to Scalice's charge that he has forced 50 to 75 residents to give up their pets, Graham said, "We haven't accepted pets for quite some time."

He noted, "We changed our pet policy approximately 90 days ago and we gave some residents a considerable length of time to get rid of theirs."

Graham said the Scalices never had the management's permission to have a pet, either verbally or in writing, and hadn't made the customary deposit required of pet owners.

FIREMAN OF THE YEAR

Robert Benedetti, a lieutenant, has been honored as the Colma "Fireman of the Year" by the Daly City-Colma SkyLions. Benedetti, who joined the Colma Volunteer Fire Department in January 1972, was promoted to his present rank in 1977. He also a volunteer fireman, after department personnel voted him the "most devoted" member of the unit. The 33-man department was formed in 1925. Benedetti is a native of Daly City and was a member of the Daly City Volunteer Fire Department's Company 6 until its disbanding in 1969.-0-

Bank accepts contributions

A branch of the Bank of America has agreed to accept contributions on behalf of the couple that needs a new car in order to be reunited after seven years of living apart.

The fund for Charlotte and Maurice Jackson, whose plight was described in this newspaper last week, was established after a dozen readers called in offering donations.

Aldo Simonetti, vice president and general manager, said his Bank of America branch at 7395 Mission St., Daly City 94015, will accept contributions sent to the Jackson fund.

Mrs. Jackson, 65, and her husband, 71, have been living apart ever since she became paralyzed from the waist down in 1972, due to a ruptured blood vessel in her spinal column.

After she was released from the hospital, Mrs. Jackson was not able to join her husband because she could not maneuver her wheelchair around the tiny trailer in unincorporated Colma that they called home.

She moved, instead, to Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center in San Mateo. She's been there ever since.

Jackson's name was on a waiting list for several years before he was able to move from the delapidated trailer, purchased in 1960, into a federally subsidized housing project in Daly City last month.

The apartment is accessible by wheelchair, so it would be possible for Mrs. Jackson to join him.

The only thing keeping them apart is their car, a 1966 two-door Oldsmobile with a front door that it too narrow and won't open far enough to allow Mrs. Jackson to slide on a board from her wheelchair into the car.

But, on their $567.65 income from Social Security and a veteran's pension, there is no way they can afford the two-door medium- or large-sized car that they need.

Mrs. Jackson explained that she cannot live in the apartment without a car because she has to be taken regularly to the doctor.

The goal of the fund established for the Jacksons at the Bank of America is to raise enough money to buy them the car that they need.

Judge

Polonsky argued that selecting a city employee fulfills requirements outlined by the Supreme Court and that hiring an outsider would set a new precedent and would cost the city more money.

The judge asked, "In this case, where a police officer (Austin) has made some unfortunate statements, wouldn't it be better to select someone from the outside?"

Polonsky said he could not agree to the judge's suggestion without asking the City Council to allocate the necessary funding to pay the outsider.

The council agreed Monday night to authorize City Manager David Rowe to hire an independent hearing officer to conduct Srock's dismissal hearing, due to the unusual circumstances of his case.

Polonsky said Monday night that Srock's hearing will be held "within the month."

Meanwhile, Srock has the right to appeal the judge's decision to deny the preliminary injunction.

Cohn set May 31 as the date for a hearing on two demurs that Daly City and Austin filed against Srock last week.

The hearing will be held at 9 a.m. in the Hall of Justice in Redwood City.

Polonsky explained that the city and Austin do not believe the evidence in the case is sufficient to support the cause of action against them.

DC Chamber sets June 2 for annual dinner-dance

The Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner-dance will be June 2 at the Olympic Club on the Daly City-San Francisco border.

Edna "Bunny" Lycett will be installed as president, along with Donald Bevilacqua, vice president, and Walt McDaniel, second vice president and treasurer.

No-host cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m. and dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The cost, including the dinner with wine, is $17.50 per person.

Reservations may be made with the Chamber at 312 - 90th St., Daly City 94015; telephone: 755-8526.

The organization also is taking reservations for its 25th Silver Jubilee Golf Tournament, which will be held at Lake Merced Golf and Country Club in San Francisco on June 14.

Starting times will be from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on a first-come, first-served basis.

As in the past, the tournament will be limited to 160 golfers.

Palindrome

ples, he jots down, "Niagara, O roar again," "A man, a plan, a canal: Panama," and "Dennis and Edna sinned."

Laughing over the last one, he says, "Then there's this naughty one," and scribbles, "Sex at noon taxes."

Crittenden swears that the oldest palindrome is a phrase that can be read in four directions:

SATOR
ROTAS

"It means, 'Arepo the sower delays his works with wheels' in Latin. It loses something in the translation," he explains.

His favorite: "Doc, note I dissent. A fast never prevents a fatness. I diet on cod."

Crittenden first became intrigued with palindromes five years ago when he read a book by a Sunnyvale teacher entitled "Notable Numbers" that lists numerical palindromes — including, appropriately, 777 palindromic prime numbers.

At the time, he had been teaching in the Jefferson Union High School District 17 years. The book changed his perspective. Suddenly he became seeing palindromes everywhere.

"I can't help it. I look at things in the other direction. Maybe it's because I'm lefthanded," he says.

He can't drive down the highway now without looking for palindromic license plates.

"The best ones are when the numbers and the letters read backwards and forwards, like ABA 121," he says.

His former students tell him that they, too, experience a sudden thrill when they encounter palindromes. One said he almost drove off the road when he noticed a palindrome on his car odometer.

A friend who shares Crittenden's palindrome mania sent him a newspaper clipping that reported the time of a recent earthquake as 4:44 p.m.

Of course, when Crittenden mails letters, he arranges stamps of different denominations in rows that can be read the same backward and forward.

"It gets to the point where you feel superstitious," he says.

But, alas, his family and other people don't share his obsession. He recalls the odd looks his fellow teachers gave him at a workshop on stress last year when he suddenly announced with a big smile, "Stress asserts."

"They just don't understand," he said, shaking his head in sympathy for those poor, lost souls.

DC police arrest 2 in burglary

Daly City police arrested two suspects at 2:30 Monday afternoon on a tip from a neighbor that a burglary was in progress at 12 Terrace View Court.

Police sped to the scene and arrested Michael Spurlock, 34, of 1303 Solano Drive, Pacifica, and Karin Avery, 19, of 8 Linden Ave. Apt. 3, Daly City on burglary charges.

Both were booked at the Daly City Pre-Detention Facility and were released on $2,500 bail each.

BART opens SF-only lot

A special Bay Area Rapid Transit District parking lot in Daly City opened today — but residents of Daly City and San Mateo County won't be able to use it.

The 250-space parking lot on St. Charles Street is exclusively for residents within the BART district, which encompasses San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

However, according to a BART spokesman, there are almost 1,700 unrestricted parking spaces at the Daly City station adjacent to the St. Charles parking lot.

In order to park in the St. Charles lot, residents of the three BART counties must obtain a parking permit sticker. Those were distributed prior to the first of April, and, according to the spokesman, will be available again this Wednesday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Daly City station.

He said residents of Alameda, San Francisco and Contra Costa counties wishing to obtain a special permit must produce both a driver's license and a vehicle registration slip.

Rick Silver, a member of the Daly City Planning Commission, is continuing his battle to force BART to open up the St. Charles lot for Daly City and San Mateo County residents.

On May 10, Silver sent a letter to BART's Board of Directors urging that the restriction be lifed.

Silver urged BART to remove the restriction "as a sign of good faith on the part of the BART district," saying that such an action would remove all barriers between BART and the city and thus would speed up their efforts to agree on a turnaround track facility in or near Daly City.

However, the BART spokesman said there has been no recent consideration by the Board of Directors to open the St. Charles lot to BART patrons outside of those residing in the three-county district.

Bob Bruno is chairing the arrangements for the party and his wife, Barbara, is in charge of the reservations. Tickets, costing $10 per person, are available at the church or may be ordered by calling the Bruno home.

Proceeds from the evening have been earmarked for a fund to purchase clarion bells for the church in memory of Cassidy.

Next Wednesday is the deadline for discounted prices for the Alumni Cruise to Mexico sponsored by the Balboa High School Alumni Association.

The Gene Perrets of Burlingame are handling the arrangements for the cruise aboard the Fairsea, which will begin Oct. 31. To qualify for the 5 per cent discount cruise guests must have a $200 deposit paid by May 30.

Mrs. Joseph Vollert is planning to have members of the Our Lady of Mercy's Installation Breakfast Committee on hand after each Mass Saturday and Sunday to sell tickets to the annual Westlake Catholic Women's Installation breakfast, which will be June 3 at the Olympic Club.

Mrs. Robert Drucker, spiritual director for the club, will chair the event. Guests will attend the 9 a.m. Mass at Our Lady of Mercy and then regroup at the Olympic Club for the special breakfast program.

According to Mrs. James McKee, the publicity person, tickets are $3.50 per person.

Brownies from Troop 1704 will observe the end of the school year by hostessing a potluck dinner, Court of Awards, fly-up and a variety show June 6 at 6 p.m.

Parents, siblings, relatives and friends are expected to be on hand for the celebration.

If you missed the Daly City Festival of Arts sponsored by the History, Art and Science Commission earlier this month when it was featured in the Serramonte Shopping Center, you may still enjoy the opportunity to view the art work of local youngsters.

Mrs. Lois Manbert of the commission reports that art work done by Jefferson Elementary School District students as well as work done by the students of the Jefferson Union High School District, will be displayed in the Daly City City Hall throughout May.

Among those who have cooperated with the History, Art and Science Commission to make this festival of the arts possible have been Ann Hale, school music supervisor, Rosalia Yerby, school art supervisor, Susan Straub, marketing director, Serramonte Shopping Center, and Mrs. Manbert for the commission.

Participating from the schools were the George Washington Glee Club, directed by David Reznik; the Benjamin Franklin Band, directed by Jim Sharpen; the Marjorie Tobias Glee Club directed by Paul Carpenter; the Daniel Webster Glee Club, directed by Ann Hale; the Colma Intermediate Salsa group directed by Ivan Simmons, and the Fernando Rivera Jazz Band, directed by Kem Martinez.

Also participating were the Jefferson Union High Schoo. District Honor Band, directed by Gordon Lowe and the Terra Nova Choir, directed by John Bentley. All groups performed in the shopping center as representatives of the high school and elementary districts.

Leisurely reading in gas lines

Samuel Chandler

"Everyone is against me!" reflected the gnome bitterly. "Every one, every two, every three and everybody!"

From "The Pirates of Oz"

Do you feel like the gnome — battered from one frustration to another: gas lines, $2 hamburgers, machines that won't work — and others that control your life? The gnome's cry seems to sum it up, "Everything is against me."

But wait! You can still read: relax with a book or a magazine, lose yourself in a novel. Reading is one of the most pleasant pastimes ever invented: most satisfying, and one of the most inexpensive.

You can carry a book in your car to pass away the hours you spend in gas lines or in the queues before drive-up windows and booths. For such purposes there are hundreds of so-called coffee table books that are ideal. These volumes are written so they are easy to follow in spite of distractions and forced pauses.

Among the new coffee table books there is a series from Crescent Books that are grouped under the title "A Picture Book to Remember Her By." The publisher calls it a travel series and states that each book was written for residents and visitors alike — and, we might add — for readers as well. So, while you're waiting for gas, do a little reading and a little dreaming.

Why not start with "San Francisco: A Picture Book to Remember Her By"? Ah, here are hundreds of pictures of the city with enough narration to make everyday scenes appeal to San Franciscans as they do to visitors. The authors speak of the "silvery Oakland Bay Bridge," the calm waters of the Bay that "deflect the glow from the lights along the shoreline," of roof-top views and yachtsmen's retreats. Do you know that the fountain in Justin Herman Plaza contains 101 concrete boxes and that the Pyramid Building stands 853 feet high? Have you seen the skyscrapers at night from Ina Coolbrith Park or Golden Gate Bridge on a moonlight night from Kirby Cove?

In the same series there are picture books, to perk your dreams of exotic places, about Ireland, Italy, Hong Kong, the Caribbean, our own California and at least 15 other colorful places.

Crescent's format is the publishing industry's answer to television. It is "Live" and "Look" and "Peek" and "See" come back again. The volumes are truly picture books, however. Readers who want more substantial information are asked to turn to titles with more writing and with prefaces and introductions.

For people who must pass the time spent on buses and BART cars, there are hundreds of titles being produced in "pocket book" size. Now you can read the grand old favorites of all time in a size that fits into your pocket without creating a bulge. Some of them come with illustrations that illuminate the story and some with easy-eye paper and larger type print.

Jack London's "The Call of the Wild," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," Lee's "Flower Drum Song," Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda," Grahame's "The Wind in the Willows" and Dorothy Eden's "Dark Water" are among the titles that may be found in pocket book editions.

In reading such wonderful stories we insulate ourselves from the frustrations of the world. As philosopher Clive Bell wrote, we come to understand the "unfamiliar tastes, habits and tendencies, physical and emotional extravagances" that we meet. This gives us an insight into living that Bell says makes us "unshockable."

Reading great romances — even during little bits of time snatched from busy hours — gives us what Helen Haines calls "a sweep of the world." Even the most "soapy" novels intrigue us and, as Ms. Haines observes, give us "a first hand acquaintance with human life and character all over the world."

Reading during frustrating times is one of the pleasant things available. Try it.

Disco dancing

Thousands of students representing high schools throughout the State of California will take part in one of the biggest disco promotions ever staged in California: "The First Annual California State High School Disco Dancing Championships."

Serramonte Center will host the Regional qualifying eliminations for all students in the area who are attending California high schools or have just recently graduated.

The couple competition will require partners from the same school to participate.

"In that way we will not only be honoring the winning couples but their schools as well," says producers David Mirisch and Steve Simons.

Regional events are being held at shopping malls. Qualifiers at the regional level will then advance to the "Grand Finale" which will be at Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park June 23.

More than $7,500 in scholarships and prizes will be awarded to winning couples. The winning couple will receive college scholarships along with roundtrip tickets to Hawaii via Western Airlines and hotel accommodations.

The regional qualifying round will be at Serramonte Center on Sunday and Monday, May 27 and 28. This is the only way in which couples may enter.

Registration is from noon to 1:30 on May 27.

Competition begins at 2 p.m.

The finals will be May 28 at 11 a.m. Entry fee is $5 per couple.

Student I.D. cards are required.

Learning the value of interdependence

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

May is a good month for evaluation. Its warmer and longer days give one a sense of increased time, of time passing more slowly. In May, especially in education, one looks to the efforts of the year. Is there visible change? Has learning taken place? But this is not an education column in the strictest sense. Among other things, it is about plants, gardening, environmental awareness and, most especially, soil stewardship.

This week, May 20 to 27, is "Soil Stewardship Week" as proclaimed by President Carter. That it is intended to encompass a complete concept of interdependence is evident in Carter's words: "Americans have always understood the value of working together to achieve common goals. We have learned that unity of purpose and mutual dependence are essential to our growth as a society of self-governing people. It is especially fitting, therefore, that interdependence of city and country, of Americans and their resources, and of man and nature — is the theme of Soil Stewardship Week, 1979."

It is only relatively recently that man in the United States has come to learn the value of interdependence with nature and to understand the price paid when such mutualism is disregarded. I sometimes play "might have been," wondering what "might have happened if . . . " Recently I came across a book with a publishing date of November 1963, written by then-Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. President John F. Kennedy wrote its introduction.

Kennedy's comment, in celebration both of the accurate historical review of the conservation movement in the United States and the pertinent conclusions Udall presents, ends on a note of hope. Because he understood what Udall calls "the quiet crisis" to mean irretrievable loss of man's balance within nature, Kennedy said: "Our economic standard of living rises, but our environmental standard of living — our access to nature and respect for it — deteriorates. . . . The crisis may be quiet, but it is urgent."

Had Kennedy lived, would his further conservation statement "It (the goal of passing on to our multiplying descendents a green and flourishing land) cannot be won until each American makes the preservation of the beauty and the bounty of the American earth his personal commitment" have carried the weight of his inaugural plea for Americans to serve rather than seek from their government? If Kennedy had lived and implemented the policies in which he expressed belief, would we, as essentially urban and suburban people, be further along in re-internalizing what those who live close to the soil experience daily — a sustaining sense of life-fulfilling interdependence? Who knows? But the idea makes for interesting speculation on a warm and lazy May morning.

Jim "Trout"Black, an "environmental educationist" who worked for a time at Hidden Villa, a youth-oriented environmental awareness center in the low hills behind Los Altos, speaks of "internalizing interdependence awareness." After a number of years as a teacher, Black is convinced that there is much in so-called environmental education that doesn't contribute to the interdependence idea.

Black disclaims media. I find I agree. Even the best slides and photographs, or the most descriptive prose, gives only a flat picture. There is no way to gain depth, except by experience in the field, yet "classroom" environmental education is all many students ever will experience.

For a number of years local school districts did participate in outdoor education programs, but most of these are gone, cut as "non-essential" in what can be viewed only as a strange ordering of priorities.

As an aside, perhaps the pleas for education funding assailing the governor's office daily might include some mention of such environmental education considerations. After all, Gov. Brown constantly expresses his continuing interest in environmental matters.

But back to Black's comments. He stresses the importance of "connection" in internalization of an idea. If a student, young or older, in the classroom or in the field, can't grasp the "why" as well as the "what" and "how" for himself, no true learning takes place. And, in a very important sense, the "why" must be connected to a person's current lifestyle. When environmental education becomes didactic or judgemental, its lukewarm converts flee and those with strong convictions find themselves unable to communicate with those whose best interests they seek to serve.

Successful environmental education becomes then more than telling or even seeing. It is doing in the very real sense of repeating what one has found to be true. The person who milks his own cow or goat, gathers eggs, fruits and vegetables, fishes and hunts for food, not just for pleasure, builds a shelter, makes his own clothes, devises his own tools at least once in his lifetime, gains a first-hand knowledge of process coupled with its energy and time demands that can't be duplicated by even the best hearsay method.

THE DIET CORNER
By Elise Gendar, the Diet Workshop

Goals and achievement.

They make or break a diet.

Do you have trouble thinking that you should lose 20 pounds?

Are you discouraged after losing five, with 15 more to go?

Then think of your big goal in terms of two smaller goals. The first is only 10 pounds. When you've shed five, you're halfway home to your smaller goal. The next five appears very close because it's easier to visualize smaller distances.

Try it some day while you're walking (and I hope you are — lots). On a city street, a beach, a country road, wherever. The distance slides past when you set your sights on a closer landmark than on the not-yet-in-view destination.

Your diet is a journey to new appearance, new health, new vigor. Today you may not be able to think about losing 20 pounds, but you surely can cope with losing 10. Breaking the journey into small phases helps. Each phase slides part quickly, giving you an appetite for the rest of the trip.

Try the same approach to your exercise program as well. Start with a minimum of physical activity and add on. Beginning with an over-ambitious program causes muscles to tense and will to break. Small steps up to maximum effort encourage muscles and will.

Goal-achieving is habit-forming. Once you've reached one goal, any goal, you champ at the bit for another.

One good goal for any dieter to set is to try a new diet recipe regularly. I'm only too happy to help you reach this goal with the recipe below:

SCALLOPS CACCIATORE

- 1¼ cups tomato juice
- ¾ teaspoon garlic powder
- ½ teaspoon onion salt
- 1 tablespoon wine vinegar
- ½ teaspoon basil
- 1 teaspoon dried onion flakes
- 1 green pepper, diced
- ½ cup sliced mushrooms
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 pound scallops

Combine tomato juice, garlic powder, salt, basil, vinegar and onion flakes in saucepan. Cook over moderate heat for 15 minutes until sauce begins to thicken. Add pepper strips and mushrooms and cook 10 minutes longer. Pour lemon juice over scallops in baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes. Remove from oven, drain off juice. Add hot sauce. Increase heat to 400 degrees and bake for 10 minutes.

As you proceed, keep your goals in mind, both long range and immediate. Concentrate on what you can see, what is manageable, and what is easily reachable. Before long, the distant goal will be the one at hand.

I would like to send you some prize-winning recipes to help you get started. Send a large self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

CORNISH GAME HENS

Rinse four Cornish game hens and pat dry with paper towel. Lightly salt cavities, and then stuff with canned, drained pineapple chunks. Truss birds and tie cavity closed. Mount crosswise on spit, alternating front-back, front-back. Do not let birds touch each other. Secure with long holding forks. Meanwhile, combine 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup melted butter, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Brush birds with mixture and place on rotisserie over medium coals. Broil from 1 to 1 1/4 hours, or till done, making certain to brush with lemon butter mixture every 10 or 15 minutes.

Les Jon's Clam House has seafood variety

Fanciers of such delicacies as steamed clams and other seafood are in for a treat, as the operators of the famed Clam House in San Francisco are now opening in LES JON'S in Burlingame. A full range of seafood, plus steaks and many specialties will be offered from 12 noon to 12 midnight Mondays through Fridays, from 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Les Jon's owners, BOB CELLITTI, JON MILLER and STAN PANDOLFI, invite their many friends and patrons to try their new food service. Piano bar entertainment by BOBBIE STAHL Sundays through Wednesdays, and BOB CELLITTI Thursdays through Saturdays ... Since the BAYHILL LOUNGE is located right in the ultra-modern Bayhill Shopping Center (just off Highway 280) in San Bruno, you can combine shopping and the pleasure of lunch or a libation all in the same visit, day or night. You can also dance to the sounds of INDEED on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. ... At LA BELLA PASTA in Foster City, (at Edgewater Place Shopping Center on the boardwalk overlooking the lagoon) everything on the menu of Italian specialties is made from strictly the freshest of ingredients. And that even includes the Gnocchi alla Bolognese, which is home made by Maria Cavani, who cooks alongside Owner/chef SALVATORE FAVA, famed for specialties such as Linguini alle Vongole ... LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in Burlingame offers a special non-alcoholic beverage list called the "Nina's Corner" for youngsters.

Eve-Ettes set great mood at Finocchio's

To the tune of "Strike Up The Band," the EVE-ETTES chorus line at FINOCCHIO'S introduces the first of the four nightly shows, which sets the mood for an evening of great entertainment. Open six nights a week (closed only on Mondays) ... From the kettle of soup stock simmering on the stove to the freshly peeled potatoes and cleaned leeks and other ingredients, everything that goes into TILLIE SCHOLTZ' home made potatoleek soup is fresh at her TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT in Moss Beach ... L'AUBERGE in Atherton/Redwood City has the relaxed atmosphere of a French country inn. The dining room provides a casual yet elegant setting for delightful dining ... The now-traditional monthly luncheon honoring former major league ballplayer and S.F. favorite Marino "Chic" Pieretti, was held at ROMANO'S Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, last Wednesday, and several dozen loyal fans enjoyed the hospitality of Owner ENRICO ROMANO. Pieretti, who is fighting the biggest battle of his life, says these luncheons and "roasts" are "The best medicine of all." Our congratulations to PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower, for winning the coveted 1979 Mobil Guide Award for Dining Excellence.

Gust family's three great restaurants

The GUST family operates three great restaurants in the Rockaway Beach complex over on the beautiful coastside. NICK'S for steaks and seafood and Sunday brunch (dinner-dancing Wednesdays through Sundays), THE MOONRAKER for continental cuisine, and CAPTAIN CHARLES for gourmet seafood. They also have the Sea Breeze Motel, adjacent to the restaurants, plus a new multi-story structure now in construction ... BILL and BARBARA MONRO are back in San Francisco after a fabulous trip to Hawaii, where they divided their time between sunning on the beach and scouting a location for another new ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB ... The best dancers in the Bay Area are competing in the Wednesday evening dance contests at LEHR'S CABARET DISCO in San Francisco for the Grand Prize trip for two to Egypt. Enjoy dinner first in the adjoining LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant, and your admission to Lehr's Cabaret Disco is free ... You're in a part of Burlingame's living history when you drop by JOHN'S PLACE, the "working man's bar" on Lorton near California Drive, as it is one of the oldest eating and drinking establishments in Burlingame, with the patina of age to prove it. . . . NORM LARSON now features dancing seven nights a week in the swinging lounge of the KING'S TABLE in Redwood City. It's a great way to top off your evening after enjoying a delicious buffet dinner. There is no cover or minimum charge and big cocktails and mixed drinks are still priced at just $1.

Gong's Chinese menu meets moods, needs

Every effort is made by JOHN CHIANG of GONG'S Chinese restaurant in South San Francisco to suit your mood and needs when ordering from his luncheon and dinner menu of Cantonese and Mardarin dishes. Some items may even be ordered in smaller portions at two thirds the price listed on the menu ... Dynamite disco music sets the beat from 8:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays, at THE BRASS ELEPHANT in the GROSVENOR AIRPORT INN, South San Francisco. Disco dancing to music ranging from the Big Bands to Sounds of the 70's. General Manager JIM RAINE also welcomes you to play backgammon in the Library Lounge of the large Brass Elephant section, which also includes a dining room, cocktail bar and the disco ... It's difficult to say just which of the many "happy hour" attractions at JOHN & KATHY'S PUB, South San Francisco, accounts for its popularity — delectable complimentary hors d'oeuvres prepared by Owner/chef KATHY WIMSATT and served by JANIE, or generous 75 cent well drinks of good brands mixed by Bartender TIL. It's a happy time from 5 to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays ... Prompt service is a hallmark of VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo. Quality and care in preparation are never compromised for the clock, which is why a certain few dishes, such as Baked Lasagne, Veal Scallopini, Combination Crab Cioppino (in shell), Bouillabaise, are marked on the menu as requiring an extra 20 minutes for special preparation. ALAN DOTE'S Wednesday-through-Saturday piano entertainment includes a little of everything — standards, popular and sing-alongs — at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City.

Daly City Police Officer Thomas Kahle, left, is presented with a Certificate of Commendation by Police Chief David A. Hansen. Kahle was commended for his work in capturing two armed suspects following a savings and loan robbery. The arrests, Hansen pointed out, resulted in the clearance of numerous other robberies under investigation by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

Ready with your sanity kits?

Now that it's possible to purchase over-the-counter self-testing pregnancy kits, the world might be ready for over-the-counter self-testing sanity kits.

But save your money when they hit the health food stores. Following is a fool-proof self-testing sanity kit, and it's free. Check the appropriate answer:

Now that the Giants have signed Lenny Randle, and considering his track record with Italian baseball managers, Spec Richardson might be well advised to hire a bodyguard for Joe Altobelli. You know, one of those guys with no name and a felt hat.

And I hope Altobelli's advisors remind him to keep his hands out of his back pockets and his peripheral vision sharp when in the vicinity of Randle.

Le Pacini

Meanwhile, should Randle ever be brought up to the varsity (he's currently in Phoenix playing himself into shape, as he hasn't played since early in spring training, when the Mets released him), I hope his advisors will suggest to him that he not tour North Beach.

Aside from all of that, I wish Randle luck. If he once again can become the player he used to be, he could be a valuable bench man for the Giants.

It's become evident by now that — as I commented in pre-season — the Giants will go only as far as their pitching allows.

Let's be honest. There are probably half a dozen teams in the National League who field as good or better starting eights than the Giants.

But, with outstanding pitching, as they had for most of last year (and which, as this is written, they have been getting recently), the rest of the team is certainly adequate to contend for a pennant.

In fact, with one more genuine power hitter in the lineup — and that outstanding pitching throughout the season — they could break away from a closely bunched, very competitive pack.

Provided, of course, that Marc Hill, Mike Ivie, Bill Madlock and Jack Clark hit at least up to their lifetime batting averages (and/or potential), and not 50-100 points below.

With fine pitching, the entire team will look better. A defense is generally sharper working behind good pitching, and an offense looks better with good pitching because it doesn't have to be exceptional.

A lot of question marks, and that's what makes games so fascinating.

One area in which the Giants are definitely working as a team is in the new game winning hits category.

In their first 13 wins this season, the honors for game winning hits were spread among 10 men. Only Madlock had more than one game-winning hit — and he had only two of them.

BASEBALL TRIVIA:

Know who has the highest lifetime on-base average in the history of the game?

It's Ted Williams, who was on base an average of 48.3 per cent of the time. Babe Ruth is next on the all-time list with 47.4. John McGraw, surprisingly, is third, with 46.4.

Another surprising entry in the top 10 is my old boyhood hero, the Burr Head, Ferris Fain, who broke in with the Athletics from the Seals and twice led the American League in hitting. Fain is 10th, with a 42.5 percentage.

Williams also holds the record for the single season highest on-base average. In 1941, the year he hit .406, Williams was on base 55.1 per cent of the time. Once again, Ruth and McGraw follow him. McGraw has the second on-base mark, with a 54.5 in 1899. He ties with Ruth, who had the identical figure in 1923. Ruth has the next best record in that area, too, with 53.0 in 1920.

Can you guess who tops all active big league pitchers in shutouts?

It's Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who, entering the season, had 51. Right behind him is Gaylord Perry, with 50.

Palmer's 51 blanks are good for 11th place on the all-time shutout list, just one behind Juan Marichal and only five behind Bob Gibson.

Walter Johnson, of course, holds the lifetime record, with 113 whitewashings. Closest to him is Grover Cleveland Alexander, who had 90 of 'em.

Either the picks for offensive linemen were shallow in the NFL draft this year, or the 49ers merely were demonstrating an unbounded faith in youthful offensive linemen like Ernie Hughes, Randy Cross, Walt Downing, and Ron Singleton.

In not drafting an offensive lineman, they lent credence to the offensive linemen that since departed Joe Thomas picked last year.

Or could it be simply that the 49ers have so many problems in other areas that it's just that the offensive line is among the least of them?

Miles sparks Tigers to NPL baseball title

By MIKE FICHER

Terra Nova High's Greg Miles was accepting the plaudits of teammates and friends when Serramonte High baseball coach Rick Escalambre extended a congratulatory handshake.

"Good game. Good year. Are you a junior or a senior?"

"Senior," Miles replied.

"Oh, thank God!" Escalambre exclaimed as he wiped his brow.

The reasons for Escalambre's relief were simple: two hits including a three-run homer, three runs scored, four runs batted in, three putouts, two assists, and one double play — statistics Miles compiled in leading the Tigers to the North Peninsula League baseball title with a 12-1 win over Serramonte Friday.

The championship win earns Terra Nova a berth in the Region I playoffs, which begin Tuesday at Washington Park in Burlingame.

Although TN played with tremendous confidence against Serramonte, the title came as something of a surprise.

"We were really confident, to tell you the truth, cause we were waiting for Camino. When we heard Serramonte won, we knew we beat 'em twice, we were pretty relaxed. That's what helped us play today. If we were tense, something else could have happened," Miles said.

"Nobody expected us to win, and last year they expected us to. None of our five seniors thought we'd go this far."

But TN Coach Marty Coil did.

"The only coach who chose us for first place was me in the preseason poll," Coil said. "I felt if we put everything together, played our defense, I thought we'd be competitive, and we played good defense all year."

What was an unexpected pleasure against Serramonte was the high-powered offensive attack.

"That's a surprise. That's not a normal game for us," Coil said. "We had extra base hits in the whole season. Today we go and get a lot."

The suddenly-robust Tigers ripped four doubles and two homers against the Regents. And they wasted little time in flexing their new-found power.

The Tigers plated four in the first inning as Miles walked, Rich Belli singled, John Buitrago doubled both runners home, and Mike Moser walloped a long home run to left field.

TN added three more in the second as Miles ripped on RBI single and Belli stroked a two-bagger to knock in two tallies and chase Regent starter Steve Chester to his first early shower of the season.

"That's the first bad game Chester's had all year. He just went out and he said "I don't have it. I don't have my rhythm, I can't get the ball down. "It was that simple," Escalambre said.

"They came out and just plain kicked our butts. They were ready. Marty (Coil) did a hell of a job with those kids. They deserve everything they got."

"Everybody just played together. Everybody played good all at the same time. Nobody was really in a slump," winning pitcher Mel Graham noted. The burly All-NPL righthander did not have this good stuff against the Regents, but still managed to toss a five-hitter, Ray Newhoff's RBI triple providing the lone Serramonte run.

For Serramonte the loss was not devastating, but a climax to a marvelous season in which it exceeded almost every observer's expectations — and according to Escalambre, it may be the beginning of a bright future.

"You know, you're not supposed to find a bright spot when you lose a championship game, but I tell you — the whole infield is back, the kid catching from the frosh-soph in the last inning is back and (Steve) Evans threw a hell of a game for us. He got a little tired but he hadn't thrown in eight weeks," Escalambre said.

A recent transfer student from Utah, Evans ripped two of the five hits off Graham and hurled two scoreless innings before tiring and yielding five runs in the fifth. Miles' three-run homer highlighted the uprising.

"That was a fastball," the All-NPL shortstop said. "That's the first one I've gotten in a long time right where I've wanted it."

"I think we did a hell of a job all year, considering nobody expected us to be there and here we are," Coil concluded.

Dons top All-MPL honors list

Four players from Aragon High's baseball team and three from Mills have been chosen to the 1979 All Mid-Peninsula League First Team, selected this week by the league's coaches.

Gary Holden, Vic Onizuka and Jeff Doerr of Aragon were selected as infielders, and the Dons' Frank Regello was chosen as a pitcher.

Regello, a junior right-hander, was 5-0 on the mound with an earned run average of 1.91. Regello, Onizuka and Holden — the only players in the MPL to finish with batting averages at or above the .400 level — finished 1-2-3 in the league in hitting. Regello batted .516.

Mills — which, along with Aragon, won a co-championship during the round-robin season — landed John Mangiante on the first team as an infielder, Jim Ryan (the league's leading RBI producer) as an outfielder and sophomore John Verducci as a utility man. Verducci finished with a record of 5-0 on the mound with an ERA of 1.33, and batted .333.

The first team is rounded out by infielder Ralph Akchurin of Burlingame, Greg Barton of Burlingame at catcher, outfielders Jay Borango and Jay Slotnick (another soph) of Capuchino and pitcher Steve McCue of San Mateo. McCue, like Regello and Verducci a righthander, had an ERA of 0.56.

COUNTY CONSUMER PLUMBING SERVICE AND REPAIR GROUP

Depressing aspects of police work having impact on officers

More and more law officers are becoming depressed because of what they encounter on the job and at home, Armand E.R. Mulder, a counseling psychologist with the San Mateo Police Department, recently told the Stanislaus County Police Officers Association .

"The patrol officer is sent to more attempted and successful suicide calls, to child abuse and neglect calls, and to family disturbance calls," Mulder said.

On the personal level, he added, "the officer is experiencing greater rates of alcoholism, drug abuse, impotency, behavioral disorders, family fights, divorce and, in extreme cases, suicide."

Mulder defined depression as a state of emotional paralysis — that is, not having the energy to try or do anything.

"It is a state of painful doubt about one's self worth," he said. "It is an intense sensation of defeat which affects one's entire behavior and attitude toward living."

Citing a Michigan study, Mulder said that this state of unhappiness is primarily caused by internal thoughts that are fully conscious. One might be psychologically predisposed to depression, he added, if there "is a gap between our expectations and actuality."

Mulder said there was a time when, if one signed up as a police officer, one could expect job satisfaction, training and career development, promotional opportunities, adequate pay increases and job security.

"In the current post-Proposition 13 environment," he said, "most of these are not true.

"As a result, employee morale is at an all-time low, confidence in management is rapidly decreasing, there is little job security for those with less than five years service, and officer behavioral disorders are on the increase."

He noted the increase in medical retirements on police forces due to job-related psychological stress.

Police have certain special problems, such as losing a partner through retirement, reassignment or death, he said.

Among all professions, police officers rank third in suicides, Mulder said. As factors, he listed an "appropriate police behavior that dictates more stoicism, less free expression of sadness, weakness, and less owning up to physical and mental difficulties."

Other considerations, he said, are the negative posture of much police work, the aspect of daily danger, necessary isolation from the community at large, the vague and poor definition of the police function in society, and the preponderance of work that is more social service than protective.

Mulder suggested as an antidote the developing by police officers of a "true intimacy."

He said such an intimacy requires exposing genuine here-and-now feelings to another person, the expression of feelings in a real way, and developing trust and eliciting the real feelings of another person.

To achieve such intimacy, he said, one should "share your innermost feelings, thoughts, concerns and beliefs with someone special."

To the police association, he added, "Some of you may view this process as being unmanly and, therefore, unacceptable." He then told a story of a "promising young man, toppled from a position he dearly enjoyed, who resigned because he could not live with the unprincipled conduct of the agency's management."

Despite a wide education, he said, the man, who lived near the Golden Gate Bridge, thought of suicide. What made the difference, he said, between suicide and living a full life was the intimacy the man developed with two people, one two thousand miles away and the other 20 miles away.

"The fact that these two people were willing and able to relate intimately with this young man made all the difference in the world."

All have gained from the experience, he said.

Mulder told the officers they can have a healthy outlook on life and their profession, a sound marriage and sound relationships in the community if "you are willing to invest in your life ... to drop symbols and images ... and to accept yourself as you really are — a vulnerable human being."

Chinese checkers origin

By RICHARD C. MOON

Chinese checkers is a game that is selling well these days. This is probably due in part to our new relationship with the People's Republic of China. But I think you should know that Chinese checkers isn't Chinese and I doubt very much if it is even played in China.

Chinese checkers is a modern game derived from a game invented in England around 1880 called Halma.

Halma is played on a square board with 16-by-16 small checkered squares. At each corner of the board heavy lines mark off an enclosure of 13 squares, and in two diagonally opposite corners additional lines increase the enclosure to 19 squares.

Checkers generally are used to play Halma, though they must be small ones to fit the smaller squares of the board.

The game is played by from two to four players, each playing for himself. Each player is given 13 checkers in a four-handed game or 19 in the two-handed version.

The object of the game is to move all of your checkers across the board to the corner enclosure diagonally opposite that from which you started. The first player to do so wins the game.

A player may move only one of his checkers on a turn. You may move either by a step or a hop, but never by a combination of the two, in any direction, vertical, horizontal, or diagonal — forward or backward. A hop move is like a jump in checkers and may be made in any direction. As in checkers, the hopping move, once started, may continue as long as there is a place to jump.

But, unlike checkers, a piece may hop over friend or foe alike and the pieces are not captured. No piece ever is removed from the board.

Furthermore, it is not compulsory to jump when able and you can bring your piece to rest at any time even though additional hops would be possible.

The idea is to form "ladders" across the board to advance your pieces as far as possible. You can block your opponent when his forces meet yours on the board and this is a big part of the strategy. You also should be careful to move your pieces in units and not leave one stranded.

If the above sounds like Chinese checkers it is because that is pretty much what it is. The differences are minor. In Chinese checkers, marbles are used instead of checkers. Six people can play and the board is in the form of a six-pointed star. Otherwise, the rules of the two games are the same. Due to the hexagonal arrangement of the Chinese checker board, you can move in six directions as opposed to eight in Halma.

Both games are great family fun. You can purchase Chinese checkers almost anywhere and the cost is small. You might have trouble finding Halma, but it would be a good do-it-yourself project to make your own Halma board.

AWARD WINNER

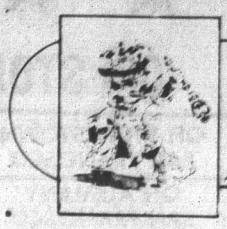
Skyline College sophomore Michele Santoro received a cash award at the finals of Bank of America's 1979 Community College Awards recently. Santoro, of Daly City, won $500 as a runner-up in the science and engineering study field. Presenting the check was Lloyd J. Sugaski, Bank of America executive vice president. Forty finalists won a total of $34,000 at the awards banquet.

Gymnasts take honors

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

Congratulations to Serramonte High School's girls gymnastics teams. Our varsity team won the NPL championship for the third time. The junior varsity team came in second, and our novice team came in fourth. That just goes to show the Regents are number one.

Congratulations also are in order to Beatrice Karavos and Marcy Raeta for their tremendous efforts in the NPL badminton finals.



The Regent

Beatrice and Marcy finished fourth among the league's best badminton players.

Serramonte High's Music Department will present its spring concert Thursday. Dinner will be served first at 6:30 p.m., at a cost of 25 cents a dip, with the concert to follow. The concert band, jazz band, and choir will perform. Tickets are $1 for non-members of MICE (Music—It Concerns Everyone), the music boosters club, who get in free. This will be your last chance to see the music students performing in a concert this year.

The Sprockets, Serramonte's bicycle club, recently competed at the Davis Double Century 200-mile bicycle ride. Congratulations to Kent Fung, who finished the trip in 11 hours, 55 minutes; Kyle Brutschy, 11 hours, 55 minutes, and Brian Clarke in 18 hours.

Mr. Dubois, our principal, was operated on for a detached retina about two weeks ago. Several students have sent him notes, candy, cards, and letters. He says he is feeling much better, and should be back to school in a couple of weeks. He also adds, "The thing that would make me feel more improved is if all students were attending classes and were aware that there is only one more month of school and now is the time to make the big push for final credits and grades. I miss all of you." All of us at Serramonte hope to see Mr. Dubois feeling better soon.

Any young lady of at least one-quarter Italian descent has an opportunity to enter the Queen Isabella Columbus Day Queen contest October 6. Prizes will be given to the three top finishers. For more information, contact Teresa Polliam, 583-4319.

Seniors: Here are some very important days to remember. June 1, senior class picnic; June 5, senior awards night; June 6-8, senior final exams; June 8, Disneyland trip; June 11, senior checkout day; June 12, senior breakfast, 7:45 a.m., and graduation rehearsal, 9 a.m.; June 13, graduation rehearsal, 9 a.m. to noon, and dress rehearsal, 1 p.m.; June 14, graduation.

Speaking of graduation, parents and friends of graduates are requested not to take pictures during the ceremony in the gym. This disturbs the dignity of the occasion and usually results in a picture that is out of focus or figures too small.

A photographer from Graduation Foto Co. will take a picture of the graduate as he or she receives the diploma. If you would like to see displays of the photo studio's work, go to the counseling office from June 1 to June 15.

Serramonte's Chess Club is sponsoring a chess tournament, which started this Monday. The games are during lunch hour. Good luck to all participants.

Blocks and pins are on sale today in the cashier's office. You will need a note from your coach to receive any item.

Have you been to Great America lately? The freshman and sophomore classes will sponsor a trip June 9. Tickets are on sale today at the cashier's office. The price is $7.75, discounted from the $9.95 regular admission. There is an additional fee for the bus.

The concert band is selling candy this week. They're going fast at 50 cents a box.

Hormone therapy is helpful in these cases

By D.R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: About a month ago our three-year-old neutered male cat started spraying things. I had seen him do this on bushes before but now he sprays car wheels, appliances and worst of all, furniture in the house. Could there be something wrong with him? How can we get him to stop doing this? Do females (unspayed) sometimes do this?

N.B.V.

ANSWER: This could be due to a urinary tract infection and should be checked by your veterinarian. If it is an infection and it (the infection) is cleared up he will stop. Occasionally neutered male cats will continue to spray due to hormonal influence and this is more difficult to control. Hormone therapy often is helpful in these cases. Females rarely spray their urine as do males, unless they also have infection. Occasionally-when they are in heat they will appear to do this.

QUESTION: Our dachshund, Mitzie, is in pretty bad shape due to a dislocation in her back. She was chasing a ball and evidently turned sharply and something snapped in her back. We've had professional help for her and even took her to a chiropractor. She's crippled and hasn't been able to use her back legs. What are the chances of her getting well? She's been crippled for overtwo months and seems to be healing very slowly.

H.O.M.

ANSWER: It is impossible to answer this question without more information, X-rays, etc. In general I can say that spinal problems are common in dachshunds due to their long backs and if your dog has not been able to use her rear legs for over two months her chances of complete recovery are not very good.

QUESTION: While we were staying at a friend's house in Nevada, our dog, Zippo, got out at night and came home with a face full of porcupine quills. There was no medical help that late at night so we carefully pulled them all out — 38 of them. He really suffered and his mouth bled, but he seems to be all-right now. Can quills be poisonous? Do dogs learn after an experience like this?

K. M.

ANSWER: Porcupine quills are not poisonous to my knowledge, but they, like any forced-in object, can cause infection. It is important to remove the quills as soon as possible, being careful not to leave any parts imbedded in the flesh. Some dogs learn from experience, but as a rule most of them will attack the next porcupine they see.

QUESTION: We have two beehives, but we're losing a lot of bees. There aren't as many as a couple of months ago. We also have two year-around visitors in our backyard — a pair of scrub jays — and have been told that they are the greatest bee-eaters in the world. What can we do short of shooting the jays? It was suggested by someone that we put out a plastic owl by the hive to scare the jays away.

L. H.

ANSWER: Scrub jays do consume many bees. The plastic owl may or may not keep the jays away from the bees. Another cause for the decrease in bee numbers can be dry weather. Less nectar in the flowers means less food for the bees. It might be wise to contact a professional bee keeper and see if they have adequate amounts of food. Supplemental feeding might be indicated.

QUESTION: When our next-door neighbor moved away, they gave us their dog. He's a big mixed breed with a lot of collie in him. A peculiar thing has happened. Our neighbors moved across town — at least eleven miles away — and the dog makes regular round-trips between our two places. He's done it at least four times. How he manages to find his way, I'll never know. I worry about him and feel that his original owners should keep him, but he keeps coming back to the old address.

B. J.

ANSWER: You can confine him (which would be the safest thing for him) but he won't be happy about it, at least for a while. Certainly you and your former neighbors should decide which of you are going to own the dog and act accordingly to restrict his movements. This is how dogs get hit by cars, cause property damage, contribute to the pet over-population, etc.

QUESTION: Do you think it is wise for people to have "exotic" animals for pets?

C.C.

ANSWER: Veterinarians do their best to discourage people from owning wild or unsuitable animals. Remember, Frank Buck and Clyde Beatty trained wild animals as a profession. This does not mean when they went home at night they wanted to cope with an octopus in the bathtub.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Manana, take it nice and easy with vibrant Perch Ole for dinner. As colorful as a Mexican fiesta, the complete meal is table-ready in 30 minutes. While rice cooks in a peppery tomato-vegetable juice mixture, you chop onions and green peppers. Then poach flaky, tender ocean perch, from the icy waters of the North Atlantic, without defrosting.

PERCH OLE

1 cup cocktail vegetable juice
1½ cups water
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 cup long grain rice
1 pound frozen North Atlantic Ocean perch fillets
1 cup cocktail vegetable juice
½ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
1 bunch green onions, tops and greens coarsely chopped
1 can (16 oz.) tomato wedges or 2 fresh tomatoes cut in wedges

In covered skillet or saucepan, combine one cup cocktail vegetable juice with 1½ cups water, 1½ teaspoons seasoned salt and ¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce. Bring to a boil, add one cup rice, cover and cook over low heat 25 minutes or until liquid is absorbed.

About 10 minutes before rice finishes cooking, place one pound frozen perch fillets in skillet with one cup cocktail vegetable juice, ½ cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt and one bay leaf. Bring liquid to boil, then reduce heat, cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes. Halfway through cooking time, gently separate fillets with fork. Fluff hot cooked rice with fork and stir in one bunch green onions, one large green pepper and one can tomato wedges. To serve, arrange hot poached ocean perch fillets in seasoned rice.

YOU

provide the family, we provide the makings for a fabulous Hillsborough living experience. If your clan is active, athletic and worships the great outdoors, consider this: Olympic pool with diving board, 8 x 8 spa that warms to 120 deg. and is big enough for a party, gas fired B.B.Q., that could accommodate a troup of hungry Eagle Scouts. Basketball court and volleyball court. After the game the kids can sip gatoraid under the covered lanai or lounge about the expansive patio or at pool side. There is a vegetable garden, fruit trees, lots of space for a pack of hounds to romp and complete privacy to boot. In front there's a lovely manicured yard and inside the ideal set-up for the family: four bedrooms, two baths, large family room with fireplace and room for a pool table or two. The kitchen is family style with lots of eating space, and a view of all the outdoor fun. Come on, gang. $345,000.
